SUMMARY OF THE REPORT

1. Gender-based violence fatalities (from 1 January 2003 to 31 December 2022)

Source: Government Office against Gender Violence (Secretary of State for Equality, Ministry of Equality).

In January 2022, the Government Office against Gender Violence (DGVG) extended the collection and dissemination of statistical data on murder victims of violence against women. Thus, since 2003, it has offered data on female fatalities due to intimate partner violence (previously known as gender-based violence) and, since 2022, it includes the murders of women due to all forms of gender-based violence against women: intimate partner, family, sexual, social and vicarious.

In 2022, three out of every five women (59.0%) killed due to gender-based violence against women were killed by their intimate partner or ex-partner.

1. It does not include intimate partner/ex-partner and family sexual violence.

Looking specifically at this area - intimate partner or ex-partner femicides - there were 49 female fatalities in 2022 and 1,182 in the period 2003-2022.

Period 2003-2022.

Source: Government Office against Gender Violence. Ministry of Equality.

In 2022, three out of four women who were known to be living with the perpetrator of assault (75.6%) were living with their murderer.

Of the 49 female fatalities in 2022, in 40.8% (20) of the cases, a complaint was filed against their assailant. Eleven of these women were granted restraining orders, which were still in force in five of the cases at the time of the murder.

Figure 1.3. Percentage distribution of female fatal victims of gender-based violence according to the filing of a complaint against the assailant.
Period 2003-2022.

With regard to legal proceedings before the courts prior to the murder of the women, it should be noted that of the 982 female fatalities recorded since information on institutional guardianship became available (1 January 2006 to 31 December 2022), only 253 complaints (25.8%) had been reported for gender-based violence.

2. Reports of gender-based violence (from 1 January 2007 to 31 December 2022)

Source: General Council of the Judiciary.

During 2022, a total of 182,065 complaints of gender-based violence reached the courts, which equates to a monthly average of 15,172 complaints and a daily average of 499 complaints. This is an increase of 11.8% in the number of complaints of gender-based violence compared with the previous year's figure.

Period 2007-2022.

Source: Prepared by the authors based on data provided by the General Council of the Judiciary.

According to their origin, of the 2,321,306 complaints filed from 2007 to 2022, 1,660,632 (71.5%) were filed directly by victims of gender violence in courts or to the police, 326,572 (14.1%) came from police reports by direct intervention, 238,733 (10.3%) were derived from injury reports, 56,224 (2.4%) were filed by emergency services and third parties in general and 39,145 (1.7%) by the victim's family members.

3. Women victims of gender-based violence with police response (from 1 January 2010 to 31 December 2022)

Source: State Secretariat for Security (Ministry of the Interior).

In the period 2010-2022, the number of cases of women with a police response decreases every year until 2016, when there is a slight upturn, which is accentuated in the following years. However, there is a major difference in the evolution of cases with no perceived risk and those requiring police protection: while the former decreased from 2011 to 2018, the latter increased steadily from 2013 to 2018. In 2022, the number of cases requiring police protection was higher than the number of cases with no perceived risk.

As of 31 December 2022, 75,140 women were receiving assistance from the police (active cases) by the State Law Enforcement Forces and Agencies as victims of gender-based violence. In 31,470 of these cases, the last assessment was that there was no risk. However, in 43,670 cases the women were found to be victims at risk and therefore also had police protection.

Data as at 31 December 2010 to 2022.

1. Between 2010 and 2011 there was a methodological change so the data for 2010 are not fully comparable with those of later years.

Source: Prepared by the authors based on data provided by the Secretariat of State for Security (Ministry of the Interior).

In more than half of the cases assessed in Viogén, the woman was at risk of a recurrence of gender-based violence. If the data is related to the population of women aged 14 and over living in Spain, for every million women there were 2,598.3 victims at risk and, consequently, they had police protection measures.

It should be borne in mind that the statistical analysis excluded cases from Catalonia and the Basque Country because the cases from the relevant autonomous police forces are only partially known.

4. Judicial data on gender-based violence (data as of 31 December 2022)

Source: Ministry of Justice.

In 2022 the number of specialised courts with jurisdiction over violence against women was as follows:

Specialised courts: As of 31 December 2022 there were 461 Courts with jurisdiction over violence against women in operation, of which 113 were exclusive Courts of Violence against Women and 348 were compatible courts.

Criminal Courts and Sections of the Provincial Courts: In addition, as of 31 December 2022, there were 38 specialised Criminal Courts and 71 Sections of the Provincial Courts which held exclusive jurisdiction over cases of violence against women in the terms established in article 1 of the Comprehensive Law.

Free legal aid: During the 2022, 13.6 million euros were invested in free legal aid for the Gender Violence Service.

Comprehensive Forensic Assessment Units: In 2022, for the territory managed by the Ministry of Justice, there were 24 psychosocial teams in operation consisting of psychologists, social workers and forensic doctors dealing with gender-based violence.

Victim assistance offices: One of the main functions of the victim assistance offices is to assist victims of gender-based violence. Through an action protocol, the aim is to assess and treat the most at-risk victims. In 2022, 5,212 victims with protection orders were attended to in the victim support offices (OAVs of the territory managed by the Ministry of Justice and those in need of psychological assistance were attended to through 10,727 psychological sessions.

5. 016 - Information and legal advice service on gender-based violence against women (from 3 September 2007 to 31 December 2022)

Source: Government Office against Gender Violence (Secretary of State for Equality, Ministry of Equality).

The 016 service, which began its activity by answering telephone enquiries about gender violence, has been expanding its scope in two directions: in terms of the areas of violence on which advice is offered and in terms of the channels through which enquiries are dealt with.

In 2022, enquiries could be about any type of gender-based violence against women: intimate partner or ex-partner, sexual, family... and could be made via phone call, email, WhatsApp and chat.

Currently, the violence that is related to the most enquiries is intimate partner violence and the most frequently used channel is still the telephone call.

1. Includes domestic sexual violence.

1. All channels were operational for the full year 2022 except for chat, which started to be used from October onwards.

Source: Government Office against Gender Violence. Ministry of Equality.

The number of intimate partner violence calls handled by the 016 service from 3 September 2007 to 31 December 2022 was 1,123,477. In this period, there was an increasing trend in the number of calls, albeit with ups and downs in the different years.

In 2022, 89,378 relevant calls for this type of violence were recorded on the 016 phone line. This figure represents an increase of 2.4% compared with the number of calls handled in 2021 (87,307). However, it should be noted that in 2022, in addition to this increase, other aforementioned channels were put into operation and strengthened, through which enquiries on intimate partner violence were also handled.

Figure 5.2. Calls handled on 016 for violence involving the partner or ex-partner.

Period 2007-2022.

Over the last five years, there has been a trend in the number of intimate partner violence calls per day of the week: calls decrease from Monday, which is the day with the highest number of calls, to the weekend, when the lowest number of calls is recorded.

6. ANAR telephone hotline (help for children and adolescents at risk). Calls about gender-based violence (from 1 January to 31 December 2022)

Source: ANAR Foundation.

Since January 2010, information has been available on calls to the "Child and Adolescent Line" to respond to the problems and needs of children and adolescents at risk and to the "Adult and Family Line" aimed at adults seeking guidance to help minors in their environment. This service provides counselling and support in the psychological, social and legal areas.

In 2022, 5,379 calls about gender-based violence were handled. Of these:

- 713 calls concerned situations of gender-based violence in which the direct victim was a female minor.
- 4.666 calls involved situations of minors within the family environment of women victims of gender-based violence.

Figure 6.1. Percentage distribution of calls about gender-based violence handled by the ANAR telephone number according to the type of violence. 2022.

Source: Compilation based on data provided by the Child and Adolescent Telephone Helpline (ANAR Foundation).

The average age of minors affected by gender-based violence was 15.8 years, while the average age of minors in violent environments was 9.9 years.

With regard to the aggressors identified in calls concerning minors living in an environment of gender-based violence, 90.0% were the father of the minors and 5.0% were the mother's partner.

7. Users of the telephone service of care and protection for victims of gender-based violence (ATENPRO) (data as of 31 December 2005 to 2022)

Source: Government Office against Gender Violence (Secretary of State for Equality, Ministry of Equality).

From the launch of this service and up to the end of 2022, the following were provided 131.094 registrations, although the number of women who used the service is lower because a user may have registered several times.

As of 31 December 2022, the number of women using the helpline service for victims of gender-based violence was 17,062, 2.1% more than the figure recorded at the end of 2021 (16,716).

Source: State Public Employment Service (Ministry of Labour, Migration and Social Security).

From 1 January 2003 to 31 December 2022, a total of 12,753 grant-funded contracts for women victims of violence (domestic and gender-based violence) were registered, of which 1,033 were formalised in 2022. Of these, 692 were permanent and 341 were temporary.

Figure 8.1. Percentage distribution of grant-funded contracts of women victims of violence according to the type of contract. 2022.

Source: Prepared by the authors on the basis of data provided by the State Public Employment Service (Ministry of Labour, Migration and Social Security).

From 1 January 2005 to 31 December 2022, the total number of replacement contracts for female workers who were victims of gender-based violence was 4,460, of which 759 were for this last year.

9. Women victims of violence receiving the active non-contributive allowance (RAI) (from 1 January 2006 to 31 December 2022) and women victims of gender-based violence receiving assistance for change of residence (from 1 January 2005 to 31 December 2022)

Source: State Public Employment Service (Ministry of Labour, Migration and Social Security).

In 2022, a total of 30,241 female workers who were victims of violence received the active non-contributive allowance (RAI), 1.3% more than in 2021.

14. Domestic Violence and Gender-based Violence Statistics (from 1 January 2011 to 31 December 2022)

Source: National Statistics Institute (INE).

The Domestic Violence and Gender Violence Statistics offer information on victims and alleged perpetrators with interim measures or protection orders issued and recorded in the reference year in the Central Register for the Protection of Victims of Domestic and Gender Violence, part of the Ministry of Justice and, in addition, on final judgements issued, persons acquitted and convicted, and their offences, sentences and measures issued. It does not include the total number of complaints filed, but only those that have resulted in their entry in the Register as a consequence of the interim measures ordered.

In 2022, 32,644 victims of gender-based violence were registered with a protection order or interim measures, an increase of 8.3% over the previous year.
